Plan for Week - ENGLISH

This week you are going to be writing your own version of a Viking myth. You are going to be using all the work you did last week to help you.

Monday – Use English Monday worksheet to plan your myth.

Tuesday – Write the introduction to your myth describing the god you have chosen to be the main character, where it lives and its special object –

Wednesday – Today you are going to write the problem section of the myth.

Thursday – Write the climax section of your story

Friday – Write the conclusion and then edit your work.

SPaG Starter

- This week we are going to be looking at different ways of starting sentences to make them more interesting.
- Use the ppt marked English Monday grammar and then improve these sentences.
- Can you start with a simile?
- _____, the boy raced across the finish line.
- Can you start with a preposition?
- _____, there lived a mean, ugly ogre.

SPaG Starter – Answers

- There are lots of possible answers!
- Starting with a simile
- As quick as lightening, the boy raced across the finish line.
- Starting with a preposition
- Under the bridge, there lived a mean, ugly ogre.

Lesson Aims

- To plan your Viking myth

Monday Task

- Use the planning sheet marked English Monday story plan and plan out your story. Before you start, make sure you have thought about what is going to happen in your story and how the god you have chosen is going to get its special object back from the villain.
- Use adjectives, adverbs, similes and powerful verbs.
- YOU DO NOT NEED TO WRITE INTO THE FIRST SECTION AS THIS IS ALL FROM THE WORK YOU DID LAST WEEK
