

1. Circle the correct spellings to complete the sentences below.

Obviussly/Obviously/Obviossly Sid knew that he could get in serious/seriuss/sereous trouble if he was caught cheating, but he was prepared to take the risk. Petra was suspicious/suspitious/suspicious of Sid and had been searching in vareous/varyous/various places to try and find his secret gadget.

2. Rewrite the following sentence so that it is punctuated correctly.

You're the one who should be worried I reply edgily.

3. Look at the table below. Draw a line to link the two halves of each sentence together.

Over the next few days,	the twins bickered constantly.
After the spelling words had been announced,	Sid hid his school bag behind a pile of boxes.
Before making his way into the hall,	Petra started acting like a detective from a crime thriller.
On the way to the town hall,	Petra grinned menacingly at Sid.

