

Elephants

Elephants are very interesting animals. They are the largest animals that live on land.

Elephants are herbivores. That means they only eat plants. They do not eat meat.

Elephants drink a lot of water as well. An elephant will drink up to 60 gallons of water a day.

Elephants will suck the water up in their trunks and then spray it into their mouths.

An elephant's trunk is truly amazing. Not only can it be used for drinking, but it can pick up something as small as a coin.

An elephant's trunk is also used for gathering food, smelling, and even communicating.

In the wild, elephants will live about 70 years. Most live in the tropical regions of Africa and Asia.

Elephants are also very emotional, and will cry when they are sad and squeak and trumpet their trunks when happy.
